ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL YEAR
FOR WESTERN CANADA
COLLEGE

This well known residential and day school for boys at Calgary has just closed another successful year, the eleventh since it was declared open by the Hon. Chief Justice Handman (then premier) in 1903.

During this session the high standing in work and discipline
for which the college is so well known has been vigorously maintained. The different departments of the college report marked progress. The installation of Technical Manual Training marks another step forward.
When the autumn term opens, this institution will have the very latest and best equipment for draughting and manual work.
Arrangements are also being made for a preparatory department for small boys.

Some years ago a separate gymnasium was equipped, and a special instructor was engaged to give his whole time to physical training and proper discipline. Last year a well arranged shooting gallery was built for the special use of the Cadet corps. These additions have won new favor among the parents and friends of the Western Canada college boys. The results are noted in the testimony of the District Commanding Officer of the Militia of Alberta. He declared the College Cadet Corps to be the best he had inspected, and he did not except the militia.

The college continues its success in sending boys to the universities, into business, and the various leading lines of occupation. A Western Canada boy won the highest prize on graduating from the Royal Military College in June of the present year. This is a peculiar honor, for all the best residential schools send many of their best boys to this military college.
This boy was for more than five years a scholar in Western Canada College. The results (in part) have come in from the Mc-Gill University matriculation examinations. A Western Canada boy is ninth among more than 500 candidates from all over Canada; another is forty-eighth in the same examination.

Following the example of similar residential institutions, the college corporation seeks to remove from the confines of the city and build on their beautiful new property, some four miles out in the country. Unfortunately the continued financial straits has compelled delay.
Sketch plans, however, have been prepared, and the buildings are erected on the new site of 40 acres. Before these were drawn a number of the best residential schools in Eastern Canada, the Eastern United States and Great Britain were studied.
The college needs these improvements, for it is the largest,
the oldest, and the best known college of its kind in Canada between Winnipeg and Vancouver.

THE IRISH SITUATION.

Just what we have been expected has happened in Ireland.
A government, as a result of its own weakness, permitted a condition of affairs to develop in the island that invited bloodshed, and blood was shed.
The streets of Dublin didn't "run blood" exactly, but there was enough blood-letting to make excuse for the very thing that people of wisdom and discretion in Great Britain have been most anxious to prevent—civil war.

The Asquith government permitted the creation of the armed force of Ulsterists, and has not prevented a gun running by the covenanters. Whereupon Dyke Ackland, parliamentary undersecretary for foreign affairs. If
Mr. Ackland's words are true,
the coming government may see
its finish almost before it starts.

There are men in all parties
who strongly favor woman suffrage. There are men in all parties, too, who are strongly opposed to woman suffrage. The question has always been non-partisan. It is the part, too, of common sense to maintain this attitude. If suffrage is to be made a party issue it takes no
prophetic vision to see that many
men who are now their allies in
the opposite party will be driven into opposition to the cause,
while many men in the party
that hosts aloft their flag will
also desert.

As a trouble-maker woman's
suffrage would crowd all other
contentious issues to the rear
and would gnaw at the very vit-
als of the party that protected it.
After all that has happened
in the past few years, it would be indeed a plucky party that would ally itself with the women
who want to vote. Especially is this true in England.

Mr. W. S. Gumsalus, a farmer living near Fleming, Pa., says he has used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy
in his family for fourteen years, and that he has found it to be an excellent remedy, and takes pleasure in recommending it. For sale by City Pharmacy. (3)

FRESH AIR ON THE FARM.

Most of us incline to the view that the farm home is where healthy conditions always exist, but Dr. Porter, secretary of the public health section of the Canadian Medical Association, shows us with a different viewpoint. He says:

"There are country districts in Canada where tuberculosis is more prevalent among the farming population than among the poorer classes in cities. Fair about city slums! You can find the conditions which constitute the menace of a slum in our farming communities. There are farm houses where the windows are never opened, where fresh air and sunlight are not allowed to enter. You may live in a mansion, but if the fresh air and sunlight are excluded by trees or vines, your mansion may be the home of tuberculosis. I would sooner live in a tenement in Toronto than in a farm house where fresh air can enter, than in some of the mansions of Rosedale, the 'fashionable suburb'."

Let the farmers keep the windows open. There is plenty of fresh air about them, but they must not keep it out of the house. That's the point Dr. Porter very rightly emphasizes.

On this subject, when under discussion at a recent medical convention at St. John B. C., Col. Carlton Jones, head of the Army Medical Corps, had these observations to make:

"Many of our soldiers live in live in an unsanitary way. Some farmers' wives never go out of the house. I have travelled a great deal in the country districts of Canada, and I hardly ever see a healthy-looking woman in a country over 35 years of age. A surprising number of look pale and ancient curse from a hygiene. I have never introduced into the rural district was the free rural mail delivery.
Formerly the farmer's wife or daughters took a long walk or drive to get the mail; now they only have to go to the gate. I believe there is a great deal of work among the farm population, but no effort is being made to deal with this disease."

CHANCES OF SUFFRAGE AS A PARTY QUESTION ARE SLIM

That the next government, whatever it might be, "would be obliged to deal with the woman suffrage question as a party measure in some shape or form," is the gist of the message given out in the House of Commons in London by Mr. Francis Dyke Ackland, parliamentary under-
secretary for foreign affairs. If
Mr. Ackland's words are true,
the coming government may see
its finish almost before it starts.
There are men in all parties
who strongly favor woman suffrage. There are men in all
parties, too, who are strongly
opposed to woman suffrage. The question has always been non-partisan. It is the part, too, of
common sense to maintain this attitude. If suffrage is to be
made a party issue it takes no
prophetic vision to see that many
men who are now their allies in
the opposite party will be driven into opposition to the cause,
while many men in the party
that hosts aloft their flag will
also desert.

As a trouble-maker woman's
suffrage would crowd all other
contentious issues to the rear
and would gnaw at the very vit-
als of the party that protected it.
After all that has happened
in the past few years, it would
be indeed a plucky party that
would ally itself with the women
who want to vote. Especially is
this true in England.

Lacombe Fair

The Lacombe Annual Exhibition promises this year to be the best ever held. It has a most loyal people behind it and everyone is doing or will now commence to do everything within their power to boost the 1914 Fair into the first place among the fairs of this district. But it is fair to say that much remains to be done. The management cannot do all, much as they already have done to make this fair a success. They must have co-operation right to the last minute of the last hour of the last day of the Fair. The winning of prizes is not the whole end for the exhibitor. The creating of competition improves everything that is made or grown or raised on the farm, on the kitchen garden and in the home. Measure your produce against the standards of the district, and see how far you will have to improve to gain the first place next year. The people of the district have already learned that it is not the horse racing or the fair, but the exhibits from their department of activity. The Fair will be measured by the exhibit and judged by the number of exhibitors whose interest in the Fair is shown by their exhibits. Get your entries in now. The catalogues are printed two weeks before fair day, and it will be of great assistance to the officials to have every entry in on time.

For further information, prize lists, entry blanks, etc., write or call on N. E. Carruthers, Secretary-Treasurer, Lacombe.

Arbordale News

The annual Sunday school picnic was held on Thursday, July 30th, at Henry's Lake, and a big crowd was present. The weather was ideal, with the exception of a small shower that came up in the latter part of the afternoon, sending those who had long trips home earlier than usual. The program provided by the different schools were very well rendered, and the speeches by several well-known men were well appreciated. A very handsomely decorated float was built for the scholars of the Fairview Sunday school, and a very pretty spectacle it was when it turned in on the field laden with laughing and frolicking children. Mr. Clifford was to be congratulated on the appearance of his team, which added materially to the beauty of the float. The sports were dispensed with as follows:

Girls' race, 25 yards, 8 years and under—1, Clara Douglas; 2, Mary Frizzell; 3, Ethel Redie.

Boys' race, 25 yards, 8 years and under—1, Albert Bruns; 2, Douglas Stewart; 3, Roy McNeil.

Girls' race, 50 yards, 8 years and under—1, Eula Burke; 2, Gertie Kangessier; 3, Miss Madison.

Boys' race, 50 yards, 8 years and under—1, Harry Taylor; 2, Whitecotton; 3, Loyd Bruns.

Sack race, boys, 50 yards—1, K. Madison; 2, A. Bruns; 3, W. Whitecotton.

Potato race, girls—1, E. Burke; 2, J. Unwin; 3, Jessie Redie.

The baseball game between Morningside and Fairview, resulted in a win for Fairview by a score of 11-15. It was a very close game and caused an hour or two's excitement.

The football game was a surprise, as after an hour's play neither team had scored. It will be played off again in a week, when we look for a win by good old Bull Town. Milton was the opposing team.

The dance held in the barn at B. S. Burke's was a big success, and everybody enjoyed themselves.

Owing to the big rain on Saturday night, the baseball game, marries vs. single men, was not played.

A return game of football, Milton vs. Bull Town, will be played at Kangessier's on Saturday. Our boys are determined to win this time, so a good game is looked for.

Iowalta News

The farmers of this district are busy haying these days. The crop is a good one.

J. F. Smith spent a few days in this neighborhood last week. Who is Slim?

The Iowalta football team have been practising faithfully of late and are now prepared to meet all comers.

George Taylor met with an unfortunate accident while having a friendly bout with Gull Lake. We are all sorry to learn that Mr. John Hubbard is at present on the sick list, and wish him a speedy recovery.

Several from the neighborhood took in the regatta at Gull Lake. It is reported that a hamper mysteriously disappeared, and a few returned to the district looking rather famished.

Robt. Frizzell has been off duty for a few days on account of rheumatism.

Misses Jennie and Mary Frizzell visited in town last week.

The school board contemplates painting the school before the opening on August 17.

Joseph Booth purchased a mare and foal from D. Collier last week.

Geo. Fink has been doing some good work in photography and will no doubt establish a good business in the neighborhood.

MAKING THE MOVIES FULL.

One of the reasons why manual training and technical education has been so warmly welcomed in public schools is that it aids the youth at a time when aid is most needed in determining to some extent as to what his life work shall be.

No statement is truer than that more human efficiency is lost through occupational misfits than from any other single cause. The most pretty much all together, and now to too great an extent, the youth as a rule takes the first job offering after he leaves school. Time was when phenology served a useful purpose, in as far as it went, in giving more or less accurate information to young people in this connection, but the bump reading method of occupation selection is only a makeshift at best. Observation of and more or less intimate association with the various industries at the right moment in life is a better guide.

And just here is where a new one has been found for the moving picture. It is connected with the league of commercial economists, with headquarters at Chicago, which is an organization of the leading manufacturers, producers and transportation agencies which propose to spread information, vocational and industrial, through such means.

The bureau is prepared to provide films and lectures on a large variety of subjects and trades showing the processes of many industries. The films and lectures are sent without expense to the institution requesting them; the only condition is that admittance to the public must be free.

Courses have already been arranged for eighteen states, and are calculated to reach a student body of at least 30,000. Apart from the schools, universities, settlement houses, trade conventions, etc., to which they will be furnished on application, powerful projectors operated from auto trucks in parks and playgrounds will carry this knowledge to the general public.

The moving picture could not possibly be put to a better use than this, and it is to be hoped that under some auspices it will be possible to have some of these films and lectures appear in Lacombe during the coming winter season. Coal, clay and oil are

Each of these would be sure to attract general attention here, among the subjects dealt with.

KATSER CALLS FOR PRAYERS FOR SUCCESS OF ARMIES

Berlin, Aug. 1.—Five thousand persons assembled in front of the palace late Friday afternoon and cheered the emperor and the empire. During the demonstration Emperor William appeared in a window and addressed his subjects as follows:

"A fateful hour has fallen for Germany. Envious people everywhere are compelling us to our just defence. The sword has been forced into our hands."

"I hope that if my efforts at the last hour do not succeed in bringing out opponents to see eye to eye with us, and in maintaining the peace, we shall, with God's help, so wield the sword that we shall restore it to its sheath again with honor."

"War would demand of us an enormous sacrifice in property and life, but we should show our enemies what it means to provoke Germany. And now I commend you to God. Go to church and kneel before God and pray for His help for our gallant army."

= Your Watch =

Even a child wonders at the marvelous tick, tick, of a watch. Every tick means a revolution of the balance wheel—432,000 in a day. Wonderful you will admit. The delicate parts doing indescribable work will soon wear themselves to ruin if permitted to run in accumulating dirt and rancid oil. It will cost you nothing to let us examine it.

JOHN DEERE IMPLEMENTS

Triple Gang with Horse-Lift

You Can Do 33 1/3 Per Cent More Work

Think of a man turning his efficiency 33 1/3 per cent more. Think of actually doing 33 1/3 per cent more work in a day than formerly. Think of doing all this extra work simply by adding another horse to your team. That is exactly what can be done with a John Deere Triple Gang. But that is not all. The work will be easier for both the man and the horse. In these days, when it is difficult to get help, any implement that will enable you to do more work with less men is worth investigating. Then think of the economy—the actual money saved. Do you know of any other plow on the farm where you can do 33 1/3 per cent more work practically without increasing the expense?

GAINS 16, 24 TO 28 INCHES EVERY ROUND

The John Deere Triple Gang is made in two sizes, 16 to 24 inches or 24 to 28 inches, consequently, extra width 16 or 24 inches. Consider what it means to have a strip of ground a yard or more wider—a sheer gain from 24 to 28 inches every round over a two bottom. Full information for the asking.

FORCED TO GRASP THE SWORD AFTER LONG YEARS OF PEACE

Vienna, July 31.—A manifesto issued by the Emperor, after stating that it had been his fervent wish to dedicate his declining years to preserving the empire from the burdens and sacrifices of war, says:

"Providence has decreed otherwise. The intrigues of a malevolent opponent, compel me in defence of the honor of my monarchy and for the protection of its dignity and the security of its possessions to grasp the sword after long years of peace."

The manifesto refers to the ingratitude of Serbia for the support the Emperor's ancestors afforded to Serbian independence, how Serbia for years has pursued a path of open hostility to Austria-Hungary, how Austrian annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, which injured no Serbian rights, called forth in Serbia outbreaks of the bitterest hatred.

"My government," continues the Emperor, "then employed the handsome privileges of the stronger and with extreme consideration and leniency only requested Serbia to reduce her army to a peace footing and promise to tread the paths of peace and friendship."

Then recalling that it was Austria's forbearance two years ago that enabled Serbia to reap the fruits of the struggle against Turkey the Emperor says:

"The hope that Serbia would keep its word has not been fulfilled, the flame of its hatred for myself and my house has blazed always higher. The design to tear from us by force inseparable portions of Austria-Hungary has been manifested with ever-louder demands."

The manifesto then dwells on the "criminal propaganda" which has extended over the frontier, aiming at the destruction of the foundations of order and loyalty in the southern part of the monarchy and the leading astray of growing youth and inciting it to deeds of madness and high treason.

It continues: "A series of murderous attacks in an organized and well-carried-out conspiracy, whose fruitful success wounded me and my loyal people to the heart, forms the visible and bloody track of those secret machinations which were operated direct in Serbia."

Declaring that a stop must be put to these intolerable provocations, the honor and dignity of the monarchy protected, and its political, military and economic developments guarded from continuous shocks, he said:

"In vain did my government make a last attempt to induce Serbia to desist. Serbia rejected the just and moderate demands of my government and refused to conform to the obligations forming the natural foundations of peace in the life of peoples and states. I must, therefore, proceed by force of arms to secure those indispensable pledges which alone can insure tranquility to new states within and lasting peace without."

In this solemn hour, I am fully conscious of the whole significance of my resolve and responsibility before the Almighty. I have examined and weighed everything and with clear conscience I set out on a path that duty points to trust in my people, who throughout every storm have always rallied in united loyalty around my throne and have always been prepared for the severest sacrifices for the honor, greatness and might of the fatherland.

"I trust in Austria-Hungary's brave and devoted forces and in the Almighty to give victory to my arms."

GERMANY TO BLAME FOR WAR IN THE EAST

The mailed fist of Germany has turned the scale of war, and her direct and uncompromising support of Austria was the final inducement to that dual monarchy to declare hostilities against her Serbian neighbor. Should all Europe unfortunately become involved in the conflict the blame will lie at the door of Germany.

The almost contemptuous rejection by the Kaiser's government of Sir Edward Grey's proposals for a general peace conference in itself constitutes an affront to England and all sincere lovers of peace. It shows that the code of morality which is held to be binding on individuals is not yet recognized by the continental powers, where their own interests are concerned.

The essence of Germany's refusal to enter a peace conference is that it would be beneath her dignity to have any diplomatic dealings and to bow to a judgment of a conference in which lesser nations, like some of the Balkan states, participated. It is as though a man should refuse to carry his case into court because a grocer or a tailor were drawn on the jury and he preferred to fight out the differences, medieval fashion, by force of arms.

It is a real surprise to see a man who shows that the arbitration movement, the idea of settling disputes by rational conference and in accordance with the spirit of equity and fair dealing, has a long way to go yet.

Meanwhile it is a sober day for England. With absolutely no interests at stake and without the slightest quarrel with anyone it is within the bounds of possibility that she may be dragged into war because of her relationship with France and Russia under the "entente cordiale" which, while not as definite and as a formal treaty of alliance, is nevertheless a moral bond upon her.

England may be compelled to throw in her lot with those powers, in the event of war, with consequences such as the most far-seeing cannot pretend to even guess.

Still, in spite of the apparent spirit of reaction which prevails on the continent, the world has been steadily advancing and the changes that international commerce will suggest itself in the calamity of a general war be averted.

"Were all medicines as meritorious as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, the world would be much better off and the percentage of suffering greatly decreased," writes Lindsay Scott, of Temple, Ind. For sale by City Pharmacy, (2)

BLOOD STAINS LEAD MEN TO WOMAN'S BODY

Tamworth, Ont., July 31.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Miss Blanche York, 30-year-old dressmaker, who disappeared from her home here on the night of July 15, and for whose remains an exhaustive search was made, was cleared up on Tuesday evening, when the body of the woman was discovered in the cellar of the home of Dr. C. K. Robinson, the physician who, it was learned, was the last to see her alive. The remains were covered with rags and a few inches of dirt.

The discovery was made through the seizure of furniture supplied to the doctor on credit by Taylor & Co. and W. B. Richardson. Accompanied by the bailiff they went to the Robinson residence and at once Mr. Taylor missed a new mattress which he had sold to Dr. Robinson. An examination of the bed in an upstairs room revealed blood stains, and the fingers of Miss York, and two doctors were summoned. The furnace was examined and in it was a piece of the missing mattress soaked in blood. In another part of the cellar was more mattress covered with blood stains and a further search revealed the body of the girl.

Dr. Robinson left Tamworth on July 15, and since then attempts to locate him failed. He declared that he declared that Miss York visited him on the night of her disappearance and that he prescribed for her a medicine containing strychnine, and also that he had missed a bottle containing tablets of Bichloride of mercury.

On the discovery of the remains a constable and two other men with loaded rifles were placed on guard to await the coming of the coroner.

A vast amount of ill health is due to impaired digestion. When the stomach fails to perform its functions properly the whole system becomes deranged. A few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets is all you need. They will strengthen your digestion, invigorate your liver, and regulate your bowels, entirely doing away with that miserable feeling due to faulty digestion. Try it. Many others have been permanently cured—why not you? For sale by City Pharmacy. (1)

It is true, of course, that the Cailloux case illustrated the unjustifiable lengths to which partnership can carry French journalism. But no law pressing upon a man going that length shall alter the death penalty nor does it justify the injured person in assuming the threefold function of jury, judge and executioner. However, the ways of a French court of justice fortunately are not the ways of our courts, else would the old adage regarding the uneasiness of the heads of kings, be made applicable to the hand that guides the pen.

SLAYING OF EDITORS IS SANCTIONED BY LAW

Notwithstanding the fact that she armed herself with a loaded revolver, went to the sanctum of her husband's enemy and in cold blood shot the unfortunate editor of La Figaro dead, without giving him even time to utter a remonstrance, Madame Cailloux has been acquitted by a Parisian jury on the charge of murder. Apart from the fact that it lasted nine days, every one of which was replete with dramatic intensity, womanly jealousy and political animosity and bitterness, the trial was unique, inasmuch as the plea advanced by the defence was absolutely destitute of relevancy.

There was no attempt whatever to base the right for the liberty of the press on logic. The defence prevented the publication of certain letters she had killed Calmette, though protesting she meant only to wound him. There were no mitigating considerations offered. A plain attempt was made to arouse a sentiment on the part of the French jury that would acquit this woman, and the attempt was as successful as anticipated.

GULL LAKE AN IDEAL SUMMER RESORT

A visitor writes in Edmonton Bulletin:

If anyone doubts that the province of Alberta contains one of the most delightful summer resorts that can be found anywhere in the West, let him spend a week-end at Gull Lake. It is altogether so delightful and withal has so many practical advantages that Edmonton people should know more of this resort.

In the first place it is readily accessible. There are three trains daily leaving the C. P. R. depot at Edmonton, at 7.30 a. m., 2.45 and 11.45 p. m., for Lacombe, which is the point from which Gull Lake is reached. The train journey is one of three hours. The return trains leave Lacombe at 4.12 a. m., 12.45 p. m. (except Sundays) and 6.54 p. m. daily. At present there are any number of automobiles to convey the visitor the eight miles from Lacombe to Gull Lake, and the cost is moderate, being about $150 each way.

The Lacombe and Blindman Valley Railway, which passes the south end of Gull Lake, where are clustered the cottages of the residents and holiday makers, is in course of construction, and will be completed from Lacombe to Gull Lake about the middle of August, when a service between these two points will be inaugurated by which every train will be met and passengers from the C. P. R. transferred to the new railway. The line (which is standard throughout) will eventually pass to the south of the lake and will be taken up the Blindman Valley to Bentley and Rimbey, passing through one of the prettiest and most fertile valleys in the Province of Alberta. The line should prove a boon to the well-to-do farmers of this splendid district, who up to now have been laboring under the difficulty of hauling their produce, some of them a distance of 50 and 60 miles by road to Lacombe. The road is under the management of Stewart Brown, as general superintendent of construction, and Mr. McBride as secretary of the company. The motive power is gas electric, the grade at any point on the line never exceeding one per cent. This is the first construction work to be undertaken under the new Light Railways Assistance Act.

There are many householders already permanently located at the beach, and as "the proof of the pudding is in the eating," the fact that the same people go down year after year is surely an indication of the growing popularity of this place.

There are each year a number of cottages that may be rented for the season and provisions may be obtained from the two stores which are within reach of the lake, while anything that cannot be obtained there can be secured at Lacombe.

Accommodation of the very best for a long or a short stay may be had at the Lake View Hotel, where one may find everything clean, comfortable and cozy, all under the excellent management of George Kirby, who will be found a genial and obliging host.

There are so many attractions at Gull Lake that it is impossible to tabulate them. The lake has a sandy beach of considerable extent, and is the most ideal place in the world for children, as the water for a distance of one hundred yards is no deeper than three feet, after which there is all the depth that is required for bathing or sailing. The finest children may be left with the most perfect safety.

It is an inspiration to see the little children paddling in the water and squealing and squinching with delight. It brings back one's own childhood and makes one feel as young and care-free and joyous as almost one of the smallest of them, and after all, is not a holiday which is lazy, restful and refreshing to body and soul alike greatly to be desired? No hurry here, everything peaceful and quiet. Sunshine everywhere; the sun seems to have a predilection for this happy little place from the early morning when the sun breaks out with its broad beaming smile, even when it doesn't show itself elsewhere.

What a charming picture is before us as we write. The sky is cloudless, blue as azure, with the rippling water to match, a snowy sail here and there on the horizon, and every now and then a canoe passes by, with the water lazily pop-popping against the bow. Cargoes of happiness, boys and girls, mothers and fathers, all seem to have left their cares behind. All kinds of craft pass by, even to our modern friend, the motor boat, all with twenty-three miles of lake to play in.

In addition to the delights of the water there are other amusements; Judge Stuart, of Calgary, is at present laying out a splendid nine-hole golf course. The place boasts a yacht club, the members of which are very enthusiastic. They hold a regatta every year, the date for 1914 being Monday, August 3rd. Cups and prizes are given in the three classes, being provided by residents of Lacombe.

There is a dancing pavilion right next to the hotel with a good floor and excellent music provided by musicians from the surrounding district.

Good shooting in the fall may be had at the lake and in the vicinity. Mr. Kirby will be glad later on in the season to make necessary arrangements for those wishing to make up shooting parties.

EARTH TREMORS VIOLENTLY FELT IN NOVA SCOTIA

Halifax, N. S., July 31.—Earth tremors, which violently shook the buildings and so alarmed the inhabitants that in one place they fled from their houses fearing immediate collapse, were felt last week on the southwestern shore of Nova Scotia, from Mahone Bay to Shelbourne.

The disturbances occurred a few minutes before noon, and were in most places felt in two distinct shocks.

The earthquake came from an easterly direction and spent their force near Shelbourne, where only one shock was felt.

Mahone Bay, Maders Cove, the Narrows, all reported shocks severe enough to rattle the dishes.

At Bridgewater the shock was very severe, but no damage was reported. The distance between Mahone Bay and Shelbourne is about 100 miles. At Sable River, which is half way between the two places, the shock was so severe that pictures were disarranged on the walls and houses shook so violently that people rushed into the open in terror, fearing their buildings would collapse. It was in this vicinity, a radius of 20 miles, that the seismic disturbances were greatest.

At Liverpool, which is the most important station east of Sable river, on the Halifax Southeastern Railway, there were two distinct shocks, one of twelve seconds and another following immediately of six seconds duration. All buildings in this town were more or less shaken, but no damage was reported.

THE DRIFT OF HOG RAISING.

Following upon the ten cent hog market of 1910 there has been a determined and successful effort to get into hogs. In almost every direction throughout Central Alberta, one can find farm after farm upon which there are hogs numbering into the hundreds and on some of these farms grain feed is being bought for a cent and a half a pound. Here we have conditions of expensive production in face of very apparent large supplies with probabilities of lower prices. Such a situation calls for care on the part of those most concerned—the producers.

Tests conducted by Mr. Hutton, of Lacombe, indicate that hogs may be grown and fitted for market at about 4 cents a pound with grain valued at a cent a pound and liberal supplies of forage. A half cent more for grain, together with limited green feed, which one frequently finds, means the raising of the cost of production to about six cents a pound and no one needs to be told that this figure is too near market quotations now or that are likely to prevail in the near future, raising a safe and profitable proposition.

Of course to simply face the situation is no safeguard against loss, but to have a clear knowledge of all the factors in the problem may save one from disappointment when the transaction is ended. The lesson will probably be drawn from extensive hog raising quotations without the necessary provision in that hog raising on a farm should be carried on as one of the many side lines on a moderate scale, so that it may be attended to as one of the small chores, or it should be made a specialty carried on upon such a scale that one or more men may give it their whole attention and with the necessary equipment to reduce the cost of production to the lowest possible limit.

One of the most common ailments that hard working people are afflicted with is lame back. Apply Chamberlain's Liniment twice a day and massage the parts thoroughly at each application, and you will get quick relief. For sale by City Pharmacy. (5)

IT TAKES WELL

Yes, our lumber takes well with everybody who likes good, sound, bright, dry, well manufactured stock. That's because we're pretty particular and finicky ourselves when it comes to buying our stock from the mills.

We've found out that particular lumber buyers like to buy of a particular yard where particular care is taken to handle only particular goods.

That is why particular buyers like to trade with this particular yard.

We want your trade, and you'll be glad to give it to us after you once see how well we serve you.

BRITAIN DECLARED WAR ON GERMANY TUESDAY EVENING! GERMAN FLEET "BOTTLED UP"

Volunteers from Lacombe for Active Service

The following are extracts from Special Orders for the week ending 10th of August, 1914.

BY MAJOR J. C. MOORE

DUTIES—Orderly Officer for the week—Lieut. Page.
Next for Duty—Lieut. George.
Orderly Sergeant for the week—Sergt. Maj. Clarke.
Next for Duty—Sergt. Quigley.

PARADES—Squadron will parade, strong as possible, at the Armories every evening at 8 o'clock, for dismounted foot and arm drill, and musketry and firing exercises.

VOLUNTEERS FOR ACTIVE SERVICE—All men, whether at present members of the Squadron or not, who are willing to volunteer for active service in Canada or abroad, will hand in their names and addresses to Sergt. Harvey at the Armories, or to any of the Squadron Officers.

ENLISTMENT—Every member of the Squadron is urged to assist in enlisting every able-bodied man it is possible to obtain.

J. CARLYLE MOORE, Major.
O. C. "A" Squadron 35th C.A.H.
J. B. MCBRIDE, Lieut.
"A" Squadron 35th C.A.H.

Mr. McBride is in daily communication by telephone with Regimental Headquarters, and all old Army or Volunteer men whether of Commissioned or Non-Commissioned rank who wish to go on active service, can obtain the latest information from him. Present members of the Troop and those wishing to enlist for active service should hand in their names to him without delay.

It should be clearly understood that no officer or man joining the Canadian Militia, can be ordered to go on active service outside the Dominion of Canada. The Canadian Militia is for Home defence. The Canadian Parliament may authorize officers commanding Regiments to call for Volunteers to serve in foreign countries. In the case, however, of Canada being threatened with invasion by any foreign power, the Militia would be mobilized and every soldier in the service called out to the defence of the country to help repel the invading forces. Militia men must respond to this call. If the worst comes and a hostile force actually invades this Dominion, then the law of Canada is that every able-bodied man may be called upon to take up arms.

The Dominion Cabinet Council sat until late on Monday night, and it is understood that the plans for the mobilization at any moment of the Canadian forces are complete.

Number 3 (Lacombe) Troop

CZAR NICHOLAS ISSUES MANIFESTO TO RUSSIANS

St. Petersburg, Aug. 3.—Emperor Nicholas today issued a manifesto in which his majesty outlines the events leading up to the declaration of war by Germany and then says the Russians will rise like one man and will repulse the insolent attack of the enemy. The text:

"By grace of God, we, Nicholas II, emperor and autocrat of all the Russians, king of Poland, and Grand Duke of Finland, etc., to all our faithful subjects make known that Russia, related by faith and blood to the Slav peoples and faithful to her historical traditions has never regarded her fate with indifference.

"But the fraternal sentiments of the Russian people for the Slav have been awakened with perfect unanimity and extraordinary force in these last few days when Austria-Hungary knowingly addressed to Serbia claims unacceptable for an independent state.

"Having paid no attention to the peace and conciliatory reply of the Serbian government, and having rejected the benevolent intervention of Russia, Austria-Hungary made haste to proceed to an armed attack, and began to bombard Belgrade.

"Forced by the situation thus created to take necessary measures of precaution we ordered the army and the navy put on a war footing, at the same time using every endeavor to obtain a peaceful solution. Four parleys were begun amid friendly relations with Germany and her ally, Austria, for the blood and the property of our subjects were dear to us.

"Contrary to our hopes in our good neighborly relations of long date, and disregarding our assurances that the mobilization measures taken were in pursuance of no object hostile to her, Germany demanded their immediate cessation. Being rebuffed in this demand, Germany suddenly declared war on Russia.

"Today it is not only the protection of a country related to us and unjustly attacked that must be accorded, but we must safeguard the honor, the dignity and the integrity of Russia and her position among the great powers.

"We believe unshakably that all our faithful subjects will rise with unanimity and devotion for the defence of Russian soil; that internal discord will be forgotten in this threatening hour; that the unity of the empire with his people will become still more close and that Russia, rising like one man, will repulse the insolent attack of the enemy.

"With a profound faith in the justice of our work and with a humble hope in omnipotent providence and in prayer, we call God's blessing on holy Russia and her valiant troops.

(Sgd.) NICHOLAS."

London, August 4.—Great Britain declared war on Germany to-night. The momentous decision of the British government for which the whole world has been waiting came before the expiration of the time limit set by Great Britain in her ultimatum to Germany demanding a satisfactory reply on the subject of Belgian neutrality.

The British foreign office has issued the following statement:

"Owing to the summary rejection by the German government of the request made by his Britannic Majesty's Government that the neutrality of Belgium should be respected, His Majesty's ambassador at Berlin has received his passports and His Majesty's Government has declared to the German Government that a state of war exists between Great Britain and Germany from 11 o'clock p.m., August 4."

London, August 4.—In the belief that Great Britain must strike on the sea in order to prevent any invasion of its shores by Germany, the order has gone forth to the commander-in-chief of the British naval force to wipe out the German fleet. There is not much doubt that within a few hours the most terrible, and disastrous marine battle of the centuries will be in progress in the North Sea.

Up to this evening the exact location of the German fleet had been largely a matter of conjecture, and it was only the action of the Germans tonight in sinking a mine-laying British ship and chasing the British torpedo destroyer Pathfinder, that revealed the German position to the British admiral. The torpedo destroyer managed to escape. Although nothing officially can be learned at the admiralty office, it is generally thought in London that the British fleet is steaming at full speed for the enemy, now that her position has been ascertained, and every loyal Britisher hopes that before long the joyous news will be flashed over the wires of a modern Armada victory for the mistress of the seas. It is learned on the highest authority that the admiralty has received a wireless message stating that the German fleet has been "bottled up" by the British fleet north of Denmark.

EMERGENCY NOW IS NO DOGMY BUT GRIM REALITY

The information that has just been received at Ottawa from Great Britain to the effect that there is a possibility of Canada being invaded, and urging the Dominion Government to at once take steps to place the coast defences on a war basis, is startling, to say the least, nor is it less embarrassing than it is startling. At the present time both Halifax and Quebec, the two strategic points of the Dominion, are as well fortified as it is possible for them to be, so that apart from the mining of the St. Lawrence and the taking of a few other precautions of like nature, there is little that Canada can do until such time as she will be called upon to offer men.

Any assistance that she might have been able to offer was knocked out of the head by the Liberal majority in the senate a few months ago. At that time the idea of an emergency was laughed to scorn. To think that Canada should ever be in such danger as to need protection or that even England should require the donation of three additions to her fleet!

Why, the thought of such a thing was preposterous and ridiculous on the face of it. So said the Liberal majority in the senate. Today they have ample opportunity of seeing the folly of their opposition at that time. Great Britain faces one of the worst conflicts in her history, and Canada, by saying merely "I'm sorry," is in danger of an attack without the semblance even of a navy, Canada is in a sorry plight. The emergency that was declared a short time ago, is now in full reality, and, thanks to the characterless lack of foresight on the part of Liberal politicians, Canada is unprepared and helpless.

WHERE THE BLAME LIES

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his sub-servient following in the senate are directly and solely responsible for the degradation of Canada in the eyes of the whole world today. With an assumption of superior wisdom this political leader and his sub-servient following in the senate have been so busy in the past that there was no emergency when Premier Borden introduced legislation to provide funds for the building of three battleships as a contribution to the British navy. Lacking the emergency, shows with such suddenness and of such magnitude that the whole world is staggered. And Canada alone among the overseas dominions has nothing to offer.

Australia has her own warships on the seas ready for duty. New Zealand's battleship is in the North Sea with the rest of the British fleet. Canada, chief of the British dominions, can boast of nothing by way of aid further than a few resolutions of unending loyalty and brotherly sympathy.

What do red-blooded Canadians think of the situation? Does not the humiliating position in which their country has been placed jar them? Does it not occur to them that they have been misled in their duty in that they have permitted too easily the thwarting of the country's will by this head of those who are supposed to be worthy of the designation of statesmen? It is not impossible that, with general war declared, the trade routes between Great Britain and America will be blocked. Then Canada will feel such a pinch as the country has never before known. That possibility would have been more remote had Canada been allowed to give the three battleships the Borden government made provision for.

IMMEDIATE ACTION URGED TO CHECK THE WHITE PLAGUE

At the meeting of the Alberta Medical Association, held at Medicine Hat last week, the following resolution was made by Dr. Whitelaw, city health officer of Edmonton, and carried unanimously:

"Whereas, owing to the prevalent belief that the climatic conditions of the Province of Alberta are favorable to the cure or arrest of tubercular conditions, a large number of affected individuals are coming to the province from other parts of the world, and whereas, the number of cases of tuberculosis of the lungs has increased to such an extent as to become a menace to the public generally, and whereas, no provision has as yet been made in the province for the care of the disease.

Be it resolved, that the association memorialize the government of the Province of Alberta, calling attention to the urgent need of such institution and requesting that the government give immediate attention to the project for the erection, equipment and maintenance of a provincial sanatorium on the 320 acres already granted for this purpose by the Dominion Government, between Mifflord and Radnor, approximately 30 miles west of Calgary on the Canadian Pacific Railway."

SINS OF THE FATHERS. BEING REPUDIATED BY JEWS

Emphasizing in the course of an address to his brethren in Calgary that it was the Romans and not the Jews who put to death the Christ, and that, in denouncing "The Merchant of Venice," Shakespeare manifested a state of mind that favored either of ignorance or vindictiveness, Rabbi Jacob of Seattle, who started a "M. of thought local" that might possibly result in a better understanding. The Rabbi, who possesses considerable knowledge of the history of his own people and he could scarcely have turned that knowledge to better account than he did when, instead of dwelling on some of the more or less important topics of the day, he essayed to clear his race from the brands with which it has been marked since the days of the Divine Passion.

For centuries of centuries almost it has been accepted as a well-established fact that the Jewish nation was responsible for the death of the Redeemer. No attempt was ever made to deny the charge, yet the Rabbi from Seattle is responsible for the statement that the racial punishment was never practised by their nation. He makes the charge, too, that Shakespeare was either ignorant or vindictive when he typified the Jew in Shylock clamoring for blood, and in support of this he asserted that the Jew, because of his religious teachings, abhors the shedding of blood.

In the course of his address the speaker touched on several characteristics of the Jews which have been objects of ridicule from the rest of humanity and the information he advanced along these lines is well calculated to at least inspire thought, as it evidences a desire to free the race from the yoke imposed by the sins of the fathers.

If the majority of visiting preachers would do as the Jewish Rabbi, the world would be the better for it. If, instead of striving to stir up strife, an effort should be made to create a better understanding between men, the chains of dissension would be weakened and simultaneously would the cause of the great Brotherhood of Man be appreciably advanced.

TENDERS FOR SCHOOL HOUSE

Scaled Tenders will be received by the Board of Trustees, School District No. 2074, at the residence of M. J. Sawyer, up to Aug. 29, 5 o'clock, for the erection of a frame school building.

Plans and specifications may be obtained from the Secretary-Treasurer in payment of a deposit of $5.00, which will be returned on receipt of a bona fide tender with plans and specifications. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Be it resolved, that the association memorialize the government of the Province of Alberta, calling attention to the urgent need of such institution and requesting that the government give immediate attention to the project for the erection, equipment and maintenance of a provincial sanatorium on the 320 acres already granted for this purpose by the Dominion Government, between Mifflord and Radnor, approximately 30 miles west of Calgary on the Canadian Pacific Railway."

Emphasizing in the course of an address to his brethren in Calgary that it was the Romans and not the Jews who put to death the Christ, and that, in denouncing "The Merchant of Venice," Shakespeare manifested a state of mind that favored either of ignorance or vindictiveness, Rabbi Jacob of Seattle, who started a "M. of thought local" that might possibly result in a better understanding. The Rabbi, who possesses considerable knowledge of the history of his own people and he could scarcely have turned that knowledge to better account than he did when, instead of dwelling on some of the more or less important topics of the day, he essayed to clear his race from the brands with which it has been marked since the days of the Divine Passion.

For centuries of centuries almost it has been accepted as a well-established fact that the Jewish nation was responsible for the death of the Redeemer. No attempt was ever made to deny the charge, yet the Rabbi from Seattle is responsible for the statement that the racial punishment was never practised by their nation. He makes the charge, too, that Shakespeare was either ignorant or vindictive when he typified the Jew in Shylock clamoring for blood, and in support of this he asserted that the Jew, because of his religious teachings, abhors the shedding of blood.

In the course of his address the speaker touched on several characteristics of the Jews which have been objects of ridicule from the rest of humanity and the information he advanced along these lines is well calculated to at least inspire thought, as it evidences a desire to free the race from the yoke imposed by the sins of the fathers.

If the majority of visiting preachers would do as the Jewish Rabbi, the world would be the better for it. If, instead of striving to stir up strife, an effort should be made to create a better understanding between men, the chains of dissension would be weakened and simultaneously would the cause of the great Brotherhood of Man be appreciably advanced.

FARMERS AND THE LEADERS

Farmers of the Canadian West will take advantage of the presence of Dominion political leaders this fall to present their case.

It is the habit of manufacturers in the west, through their association, to plan pilgrimages to the Dominion capital every autumn, in order that political heads may be impressed with manufacturing needs. There is reason to believe that these oft-repeated pilgrimages have not been without avail, in fact, suspicion is general that as a result of such activity parliamentarians at Ottawa have come to have an impression that the manufacturing interest outweighs all others in national importance.

Farmers of the west do well to take a leaf out of the manufacturers' book in this respect. In fact, it is a wonder, having been organized as long as they have, that they have not succeeded in this direction more notably than results show. But for this there is probably a good reason.

The Manufacturers' Association of Canada is a finely directed, smooth-working machine. It is managed by men who recognize among themselves, though they may not admit the fact to outsiders, that the interests of manufacturers, important as they may be, are not all-important. And when they approach government this fact is recognized in the pleadings they make and the suggestions they offer. If they do not get all they want they suitably take what they can get and play for another visit later on.

This has not been the policy of the farmers in the past. Their organization has not been so perfectly managed and their appeals to parliament have not been so diplomatically handled. In considering what they want for themselves they have sometimes ignored the rights and feelings of others, with the result that instead of winning friends they have made enemies.

KNOWLEDGE OF MIXED FARMING GOSPEL SPEAKS

That Alberta and Saskatchewan are not entirely wheat-raising provinces is the conclusion that has been reached by the Ottawa Journal after studying statistics that have been prepared. It finds that Alberta last year produced $15,000,000 worth of eggs, poultry and milk, and that from the milk was made $6,000,000 worth of other foodstuffs, such as butter and cheese. The Journal has also discovered a farmer near Saskatoon who has 2,000 acres seeded down in alfalfa.

is and who expects to realize as much from one acre of this crop as he would from 30 acres of wheat. Incidentally this agriculturalist has 10,000 sheep, 200 horses, 1,000 cows and 2,000 acres in corn, which figures would lead one to conclude that said agriculturalist can pass up the oil developments without the least symptom of a pang of regret.

The Journal's observations will give its readers some idea as to the spread of the gospel of mixed farming, but since the quoted statistics were prepared, interest in the movement has become far more pronounced, and this year Alberta's mixed farming returns will be much greater than in 1913. In fact, alone the figures will run to $6,000,000, while the value of dairy products will be vastly increased. It is accordingly obvious that as the years pass, Alberta and Saskatchewan will eliminate bad year conditions to a large extent by generally adopting a scheme of mixed farming that will not confine the agriculturists' energies to one department, such as "wheat mining."

FOOT PASSENGERS.

Pedestrians should be suppressed, all motorists agree, long since they ceased to be a pest, and they're a nuisance now. There's nothing harder on a car than running over men; it gives the works a deadly jar and wrecks the springs again. This spring I bought a new machine that took most all my pile; I filled its tank with gasoline to try it for a mile; two neighbors got beneath the wheels, their nerve was cold and raw, what wonder that a driver feels there ought to be a law? It takes all pleasure from the game, it spoils the joys of graft, to find that some wayfarer's frame is wound around a shaft. The walkers say they have a right to alley, street and lane and just to demonstrate their spite, they let themselves be slain. Pedestrians will go too far, they're claiming now, 'tis said, that every man who runs a car should stop and plant his dead. With jealousy their hearts are filled, since they can't ride in cars, they take delight in being killed, in gaining wounds and scars; by this they're hoping to create a sentiment adverse to eggs, poultry and milk, and that this, the pasture of the great, could jealousy do worse? Our legislators and our courts should shield us from such shocks—should guard the noblest of all sports and jail the man who walks.

Austria's and Servia's War Excuse

The assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife has been the spark that has kindled into flame the long smouldering embers of Austrian and Servian hatred. Shocking as that tragedy was it was, after all, but one incident in a long chapter of political reprisals, an incident which Austria has been quick to seize on as an opportunity to vent the hatred of years on the little neighboring state, whose aggressions she can no longer ignore and whose pretensions she no longer dares to scorn.

Austria's ultimatum did not come as a surprise to anyone who has followed her diplomatic maneuvering of the past twenty-five years. Austria has never been able to forgive Servia for existing at all and Servia has always been a stubborn opponent to her own schemes for development.

For 25 years jealousy and enmity have fed on each other, for 25 years each has irritated the other in all the numberless ways known to skilled politicians. For 25 years each has been held in check by the pressure of outside influences. But now the tragic death of the heir apparent has put in Austria's hands an excuse so powerful that she dares to use it as a weapon, while Servia, assured of the absolute loyalty and unity of her people and confident of the backing of all the southern Slavs, is only put in the position of having her hand forced.

At the first thought it would seem that considering the difference in size and resources, any contest between these two countries must be unequal. Austria has enjoyed a long period of peace and possesses a large and highly trained army. Servia, on the other hand, is only beginning to recover from two costly wars. Although she gained thereby the territory in Macedonia that she had long coveted, she has not yet had the time to profit by it.

Servia is poor and her army comparatively small, but she possesses an element of strength, the value of which is due to her by reason of the fact that the same quality is Austria's great weakness. The entire Servian people are a unit on any question of national honor, the disloyalty of any part of its army is an impossible supposition.

On the other hand, the Austrian army, like the Austrian empire, is made up of many people of many minds, and it is not possible to be quite certain how it would conduct itself in a war in which racial considerations would be involved, as in a war with Servia.

In a war with Servia practically all the military operations would be conducted in a territory populated almost wholly by Serbs, a people tied by the sympathy of common race and tradition to the people they would be fighting; ties that are to the southern Slavs, many times more binding than the slender political threads that hold them to the Austrian empire.

In prosecuting a war against Servia, Austria has long known that she would expose herself to the danger of arousing to open rebellion her entire southern Slav population.

Apart from the deep sources of Germany and Slav racial antipathy the hatred of Austria and Servia had its beginning as far back as 1878 when by the Berlin treaty Servia was given her independence as a state, while Bosnia and Herzegovina, peopled by the very fever of the Serb race, whose devoted patriotism had kindled the revolution that humbled Turkey, were practically given over to Austria.

Thus the Serbs, newly freed from Turkey, were arbitrarily divided, and part of them given over to a yoke just as hateful as that of the Moslem had been. For five years they fought bitterly against it, while Servia gave them her entire sympathy and such material aid as her impoverished condition would permit.

Not even the powerful army of occupation that has always been maintained there has been strong enough to control the sentiment of the people. A correspondent traveling there found the bitterness in no degree abated during the ten years since he had previously observed conditions there.

In securing her hold on Bosnia and Herzegovina, and the Balkan coast, Austria attained the highly important advantage of a foothold on the Adriatic and at the same time defeated Servia's equal necessity for such an outlet. Through all the thirty-five years between the Berlin treaty and the Balkan war, Servia struggled for a seaport, and Austria, to the failure to gain this end Servia attributes her slow commercial development and the difficulty of realizing on her resources.

The so-called "pig wars" and "poultry wars" were an outgrowth of this systematic repression. Servia raised large quantities of pigs and fowl of a high grade, and if she could market them readily would find them a valuable export. But Austria steadily maintained ruinous quarantine regulations that prevented the stock being transported across her territory to market. The result was that the Servian market was glutted with these products and the farmers received no prices at all. Two cents for a chicken and five cents for a ham would rouse the fighting blood of any farmer in Macedonia.

During all this time Austria kept a blighting hand on the political life of the country. Her influence was apparent in all the elections with Montenegro. When Russia also took a hand in Servian affairs as a check to Austria the distraught little kingdom could wonder what freedom meant after all. Only within the past few years has it been able to free itself from these vassal elements, enjoy an independent political life, and create a friendly understanding with Montenegro.

When Austria definitely annexed Bosnia and Herzegovina, Servia saw her hopes of their ultimate union with her entirely defeated. She protested bitterly, and carried such a point that her army practically confronted that of Austria on the opposite side of the Danube. The interference of Germany which held back Russia's war all that prevented a serious war. Here again Servia felt herself outaged and defeated by the united Germanic influence, and nursing her hurts she once more turned herself to wait for her opportunity. It came with the outbreak of the Balkan war, when by a series of brilliant campaigns the Servians advanced straight through Albania to Durazzo, thus seizing the coveted seaport. It is not hard to recall the maneuvering by which Austrian diplomacy defeated this end by setting up the ill-fated little kingdom of Albania as a buffer. At the same time she was able to prevent Montenegro, also a Serb state, from maintaining her hold on the hardly-won city of Scutari. Not even the highly desirable portions of Macedonia that fell to Servia's lot at the end of the war for five years they fought bitterly in her rage and disappointment in the loss of the foothold on the sea.

Austria's irritation against Servia, which has expressed itself in the sharp phrasing of the ultimatum, is based on her belief in Servia's intention to aggrandize herself at the expense of Austria, and her belief in official treachery. She found the bitterness in no degree abated during the ten years since he had previously observed conditions there.

The Austrian government failed utterly to prove its contention that plots fomented in Belgrade against its authority, were probably the most prominent of these proceedings, though there have been endless riotings and arrests and minor trials for which the union may have been directly responsible. The secretary of the society, Major Milan Pribitchewich, formerly an Austrian army officer, was mentioned in the confession of the youth who threw the bomb at the Archduke. This naturally has given Austria sufficient ground on which to demand an entire wiping out of this inflammatory society, the suppression of all its literature and the punishment of its leaders.

Austria further claims that the public schools of Servia have been used as an instrument for the instilling of anti-Austrian prejudice, and asserts that the branch of the Servian official service is honeycombed with plots aimed against Austrian tranquility.

Until she seized on the murder of the Archduke, Austria was not able to put her finger on any tangible evidence of Servia's malfeasance. But Servia's reprisals were not less irritating for being intangible. Austria has felt for years that all Servia was a hot-bed of intrigue and conspiracy against her, and she has recognized the slow encroachment of the disturbing influence centered there in her own territory. The fact that nothing has been sufficiently well defined to be open to official resentment has not rendered the aggressive less exasperated. Nor have the repeated denials of the Servian authorities without the slightest official confirmation served to satisfy her.

Servia officials do not deny the existence of a strong anti-Austrian sentiment in Servia, nor do they deny the existence of hotting against Austria. But more important, than they would to the rioting of turbulent students, and they point out the fact that in the present condition of Servia trouble in any guise whatever is the last thing she wants.

"Servia must have peace," said M. Pashitch, the Servian prime minister. "Peace is the only thing that can make Servia strong and vigorous state that she has the right to be. It is useless to deny what past history plainly proves, that our relations with Austria are, some what delicate, but as for the existence of official plots against her it is utterly impossible. These things may exist among the people, but it is a case of individuals and not officials, and wherever they can be gotten at by process of law they have steadily been suppressed and their perpetrators punished."

Should the present situation end in actual warfare between Austria and Servia the prophet who forecasts results on the basis of figures will have an easy time of it, for with Servia's war strength estimated at 300,000 men and Austria's at 2,000,000, there would seem to be little doubt of the outcome. But there are so many more elements involved in a figure that they can scarcely be relied upon. Austria has an army common to both kingdoms, while at the same time Austria and Hungary each supports a second line army fully organized and distinct from the common army and from each other.

Behind these are the reserves of the older men. The common army includes about one and a quarter million men, and each of the second line armies about a quarter-million. The politics of the various nationalities of the empire have had their effect on the army, and it has been only by skillful management that it has been kept at the standard that so important a power must require.

The Servian was until the Balkan war an untried quantity, with the presumption against its efficiency. The dramatic events of that war gave it, however, a new rating, for the Servian proved himself a splendid soldier and the organization of the army proved surprisingly effective. It had great power of expansion, which the wonderful esprit de corps and the galvanizing effect of devoted enthusiasm more than overcame former defects.

JOHN NIBLOCK EXPIRES AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Calgary, July 31.—Early Thursday morning, in Victoria, B. C., there passed away at the age of 64, John Niblock, an old-timer of Alberta and long resident of Calgary. Mr. Niblock had been ailing since last November with heart trouble, and the end was not entirely unexpected.

As the general superintendent of the C. P. R., Alberta division for 23 years, Mr. Niblock was well known throughout the province. He was identified with the public life and institutions of the city, and will be mourned by many friends.

While resident in Scarborough, Ontario, Dec. 21, 1849, was educated in the public schools of Ontario. For five years he worked on the G.T.R. as brakeman and conductor. In 1880 he commenced his working connection with the C.P.R., where he remained until four years ago, when he retired from the company's service.

Taking up his residence at Narmanata, in the Okanagan Valley, Mr. Niblock spent a year fruit farming. Then he went to England, spending a year in London, afterwards returning round the world to Victoria, B.C., about one year ago.

While resident in Calgary, Mr. Niblock organized the Horticultural Society. He was first president of the Children's Aid Society, and a director of the Y.M.C.A.

In religion he was a Methodist, connected with Central Church, of which he was a trustee. Three children are left to mourn his loss.—D. B. Niblock, of Calgary, connected with Niblock & Tull, financial firm; B. N. Niblock, of Spokane, and Miss Victoria Niblock, of Victoria, B. C. A brother, W. G. Niblock, is the collector of customs at Medicine Hat.

The remains of the late Mr. John Niblock is expected to arrive in Calgary next Monday night from Victoria, and the funeral will take place from Central Methodist Church at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, to Union cemetery.

ENGLAND FORCED IN BUT PREPARED AS NEVER BEFORE

London, July 31.—The last ray of hope of averting a general European conflagration has vanished.

Nothing short of divine intervention can stay the sword, now unsheathed. Great Britain has been dragged into the imbrolio much against her will, but in accepting the inevitable the government has acted swiftly. Secret mobilization of troops, both regular and irregular, is now being carried out. All the army reservists—that is men who finished their time but who are still on the reserve strength—have been summoned by wire to join the colors.

Many of them already are en-training for their regiments. Thousands of others will do so before the end of the week.

By Monday next the British army will be at full war strength. Fortunately the annual training of the territorials, who were better known as the volunteers before Lord Haldane, as war secretary, changed the designation, begins next Saturday, when 65,000 will be under canvas for a fortnight's training. These men will be required to take into camp with them full mobilization kits. The naval estimate is rushing coal day and night to ports.

The government has also exercised its right of option on the latest and greatest Cunarder, the Aquitania, for transport purposes. It has warned the owners not to allow her to depart again until leave is given.

The Aquitania, lies at Liverpool, where she recently arrived from New York.

Other English shipping lines, including the Furness company, have been similarly warned not to allow boats to depart from British ports to depart without leave.

The war office exercised its right to take all the horses belonging to Thomas & Tilling, a great firm of carriers, numbering several thousand.

Work at the Woolwich arsenal is proceeding with feverish haste the whole 24 hours, while all big government supplies concerns are equally active.

QUESTION NOW ARISES ABOUT SHIPS AT SEA

New York, July 31.—Many inquiries were received at the shipping offices yesterday as to whether if a ship left port while the nation whose flag it flies is at peace, is liable to seizure at sea by an enemy which declares war before the ship has reached its port. The question is one which has been puzzling the officials of many of the shipping companies and most of them were not prepared to answer it yesterday.

Many steamship men believed that a ship leaving port under the conditions stated is safe until it reaches its port. This view, according to Professor Geo. W. Kirchwey, of Columbia University, one of the foremost authorities on international law in this country.

"A declaration of war takes effect all over the world at the moment of declaration," said Professor Kirchwey last night. "As soon as a nation has declared war, it may seize any ship on the sea flying the flag of an enemy, whether or not that ship left port before the declaration of war was made."

"Similarly, a vessel flying a neutral flag, but carrying contraband of war, is liable to be confiscated and seized as a prize by a belligerent power at any time after the declaration of war, whether the vessel left port before or after the war was declared."

NEW OIL COMPANIES MUST PROTECT STOCK BUYERS

Oil companies that attempt to sell stock in future will have to give the potential buyers a guarantee that promoters' or vendors' stock will not be dumped on the market. The complaint is made at Vancouver that stocks that were sold here at 15 and 20 cents have been advertised at the Coast at a dollar and sometimes even more, but it is difficult to understand why this should be the case, for the Daily Oil Gazette of Vancouver publishes the Calgary stock quotations and investors can easily avoid being deceived.

In Calgary the experience has been that many stocks that were sold at high prices can now be obtained at much less on the open market, and the reason is not so much that people are being forced to sell as that vendors and promoters' stock is being thrown on the market for what it will bring.

And here again is another reason why the capitalization should be low. When the capitalization is high, it is found that blocks of stock are given to those who are interested in the formation of the company concerned. They have not been under any particularly heavy expense and practically all their stock is "sold," so they can sell at a fair profit no matter how low a figure they accept. Thus an injustice is done those who have paid real money for their certificates and a situation is created that will embarrass companies that are really on the square and that are trying to give the public a fair deal.

M. Mecklenburg, A.W., the famous sight specialist, who devotes his whole time to the eyesight, office Jasper, E. Edmonson, phone 5226, will make regular monthly visits at Adelphi Hotel, Lacombe. Next visit, Tuesday, August 4th, and after that the first Tuesday in each month.

Bentley News

Haying is in full swing, much of the grain is beginning to ripen, and harvesting will be very early if this weather continues.

Bentley was well represented at the regatta at Wiesville on Monday, the Thorp-Damron boat getting 4th place in the sailing event.

The show and dance on Friday night last was well attended and enjoyed by those present.

Things are rather quiet here, while we are awaiting the completion of the railway, then we expect things to move along brisker.

The school will open on Monday, August 10th, for the second term, with J. W. Grant in the chair.

The manager of concessions has let 240 feet of continuous space to Mr. Young, the representative of the Chapman Amusement Co., who will have twelve or more shows of the best type here.

There will also be two Paris Mutual machines here, as are now used at Calgary and Edmonton. All shows and amusements will be of a high order, to which no objection can be taken, as the management reserve the right to close any show at any time if not conducted to their satisfaction.

Everyone turn out this year and help to make this a record year. Your presence shows you appreciate the efforts of the directors to entertain and educate, and at the same time advertise the best mixed farming district on earth.

WAR FROM ITS INGLORIOUS SIDE

I was conceived in passion, hatred, envy and greed, born in the morning of antiquity, and have a genealogy whose every page drips with the red blood of murdered innocence. I respect neither the feebleness of grey hairs, the helplessness of infancy, nor the sacredness of virtue, and walk, iron-shod, ruthlessly and impartially over the form of the weakling or the form of the giant.

I paint the midnight skies a lurid glow from the burning homes I have ravaged, and I turn peaceful scenes of rural beauty, where God's own creatures dwell together in amity, into a raging hell. I set neighbor against neighbor in deadly combat, and I incite the brother to slay his brother.

I make puppets of kings, princes of paupers, courtiers of courtisans, and thieves of respected subjects, and empires melt before my breath as does mist before the morning sunlight.

I make of religion fanaticism; the heathen I make a bend incarnate, and of all men I make playthings devoid of reason and justice. Through intrigue I make the intelligent powerful, the unscrupulous wax fat on the spoils of blood-won victories gained by others, and the less learned suffer for their own ignorance.

Famine, want and misery follow in my path; I lay waste green fields and still the hand of industry. I pillage the land of its resources but contribute nothing of benefit to mankind, leaving pestilence to stalk ghostlike in my wake and complete the work of destruction. I lay a heavy tribute upon my most loyal subjects for the maintenance of my establishment; I squander the vitality and lives of those who serve me faithfully; yet return to the world nothing but ruin and ashes. The baubles of fame I confer on some are the empty shells of false standards wherein the license to commit murder and rapine is held to be the insignia of glory by a mistaken civilization.

I can offer no excuse for my having come into existence, nor can I give one plausible reason why I should not cease to be, other than that so long as men who wield influence are permitted to gratify their selfish desires and ambitions at the expense of the many who must carry the burdens and endure the suffering, that long will I continue to, exact my toll of sorrow, devastation and death. For I am pitiless—devoid of all feeling; I fear neither man nor God; I am amenable to no law, and I am in myself the law and the last resort.

COMMAND IS SAFE IN THE HANDS OF KITCHENER

No better news perhaps has been received since the outbreak of hostilities in Europe than that Field Marshal Lord Kitchener will be placed at the head of the British army in the event of Great Britain being drawn into the vortex. Of all the military men in England or even in Europe there is none who is better fitted for the responsible post than the hero of Khartoum. A seasoned veteran of many years, a man who has seen service in India, Egypt and South Africa, the rugged old warrior is as well fitted to enter into, and take charge of, a strenuous campaign today as if he was 30 years younger.

There is nothing about warfare that Kitchener does not understand. From the day that he first buckled on a sword he has made a special study of the art and to it he devoted his entire time. Nor has he ever once proved incompetent or unworthy of the faith that has so frequently been placed in him. A man to whom honors and the plaudits of the world's innate genius he has managed to keep well back in the shadow, but in spite of his characteristic attitude of aloofness and his retiring disposition he has been unable to hide from the world his innate genius along military lines. As a commander he holds the respect and unwavering loyalty of his men, and with him at the head of his armies, England may rest assured that the expected conflict will be devoid of those mistakes that reflected so detrimentally on her arms at the outset of the war in Africa.

NATIONS WERE NOT TO BE CAUGHT NAPPING

If in making preparations for war, even though he has declared in an egotistical oration to his subjects that the sword was forced into his hand, the Emperor of Germany thought that he was making a strategical move to catch his enemies unawares, he is due for a disconcerting surprise. And regardless of the carefully laid plans of years, the surprise may prove disastrous to the German nation.

It is true that when the political atmosphere became first charged with the electricity of war, the triple entente was in a sorry fix. England had on her hands the home rule question presaging civil war; Russia faced the biggest strike in history, and France, torn by internal dissension, was practically without a parliament. When the German menace became acute, however, matters at home were soon rectified. The Irish question was instantaneously shelved; the Russian strike was settled in twenty-four hours, and the French patriots at once united and made all preparations for holding up their end. Before the one big danger, local troubles became but secondary considerations.

In a marvelously brief space of time the three nations were in readiness for any contingency that might possibly arise. The Kaiser's first move, fathered by a desire to strike straight at his foes who, to all appearances, were heavily fettered, was successfully checked, and, as a result, the war lord must either draw out with what honor he may, or fight and take the consequences. Neither England nor her allies have been caught napping.
